 Strovolos, Nicosia

Building plot in Strovolos spans 550 square meters, a large parcel by local standards and one of the more workable sizes for a residential build in the area. The land sits close to a highway, which keeps access beyond Strovolos straightforward, and close to local amenities, putting everyday errands within easy reach once a home is built.

Strovolos is one of the largest suburbs of Nicosia, sitting inland on Cyprus's central plain rather than along the coast. The built fabric here is a mix of residential streets and commercial stretches, ranging from older low-rise housing to newer development, reflecting the suburb's growth alongside the capital. As a suburb of this scale, it carries the everyday amenity types that come with a substantial residential area, and its flat, inland setting means no coastal or
